

New Environmental Sustainability Group launched at THINK 07

23 May 2007

Providing clients with a 'one stop shop' of practical and effective advice on environmental sustainability.

Our new Environmental Sustainability Group \(ESG\) was launched at the inaugural Think 07 event at Excel on 1 May. The ESG brings together representatives from each area of our business to aggregate our knowledge and experience – to provide clients with a 'one stop shop' of practical and effective advice. For more information and contacts see our ESG page or our brochure.

The Think conference and exhibition is a new high level event which explores the wider responsibilities of the property and construction industries as we deal with the issues of climate change, urban renewal and redevelopment. Experts from our ESG were available at our stand in the sustainability area, in addition Angus McIntosh was one of the speakers and chaired two of the discussion forums.

Richard Batten, Joint Senior Partner and Chairman of the ESG commented "Environmental sustainability is one of the most dynamic areas in the property world. Our ESG will ensure that we continue to give clients the best possible advice and guidance to meet this increasingly complex challenge. We are pleased to support Think which is a great opportunity for the property industry to showcase current initiatives."
